

Why Choose redipor by Cherwell?

Redipor® prepared microbiological media has been manufactured since the early 1980s. During this time Redipor has built a strong reputation for delivering high quality media with a flexible, efficient service.

With an extensive experience with environmental monitoring, sterility testing, process validation and the regulatory environment means we completely understand your operational needs.

Our adaptability means we're able to provide scalable solutions, and a range of Redipor batch sizes and tailored formulations to meet your specific requirements.

Why Redipor?

Redipor, delivers high-quality products that meet the demands of pharmaceutical manufacturing. We aim to deliver complete confidence for your cleanroom, and help effectively manage your controlled environments and processes.

With global distribution, Redipor products are manufactured by Cherwell in Oxfordshire, UK. Performance testing underpins everything we do. This is vital to deliver consistent and repeatable results that meet your standards and compliance needs.

Our highly skilled and specialised team follows strict Quality Assurance processes. All products must meet stringent criteria before they're released, and granted a detailed certificate of analysis.

ISO9001 certification means the Redipor manufacturing facility and its quality management system are in full compliance with quality management standards and regulations. This includes the servicing and calibration of SAS Air Samplers, alongside distribution and sales of laboratory equipment and consumables.

As well as expert advice on our extensive range of prepared microbiological media and environmental monitoring equipment, we also supply a wide range of end-to-end solutions, from formulation to packaging and delivery.

About Cherwell

Founded in 1971, Cherwell operated for many years as a family business, but acquisition by the AnalytiChem Group in 2023 took the company to another level, forging new relationships and operational synergies.

Our core values of “reliable, adaptable, partnership” encapsulate our ethos and approach to working with you.

Reliable: we'll deliver what you need, and be true to our word.

Adaptable: we're continuously developing our products and processes, and ourselves, to meet your needs.

Partnership: we're supportive, helpful and committed to both our customers, and each other.

Customers are welcome to visit our facility for audit purposes or gain insight into our manufacturing and quality assurance processes.

Cherwell: enjoy reduced risk and confidence in your cleanroom with our consistent, reliable service and full support every step of the way.
